EMI APPOINTS SLY BAILEY AS SENIOR INDEPENDENT DIRECTOR

LONDON, 9 FEBRUARY 2007 -- EMI Group plc has appointed Sly Bailey as Senior Independent Director, succeeding John Gildersleeve who recently became Chairman of EMI Group.

Currently the Chief Executive of the UK's largest newspaper publisher, Trinity Mirror, Bailey has been a Non-Executive Director of EMI since April 2004. She will now also chair EMI's Remuneration Committee.

Bailey, who is 45, has had a distinguished career in the media and publishing industry. Since February 2003 she has been chief executive of Trinity Mirror which has a portfolio of over 500 media brands, including over 260 newspapers and 300 websites, and employs around 11,000 people across the UK.

Between 1989 and 2003 Bailey held a number of executive positions with IPC Media, the largest consumer magazine company in the UK, and led its sale to AOL Time Warner in 2001. She joined the company's board in 1994 and became Chief Executive in 1999. Bailey began her career in 1984 as a sales executive with The Guardian newspaper before moving to The Independent newspaper in 1987.

Bailey is also a director of The Press Association, is the president of NewstrAid, a charity for the newspaper distribution and retail industry, and is a board member of the NSPCC Stop Organised Abuse Appeal.

News Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ER 07/25

14 February 2007

EMI Group plc

EMI Group announces a revision to its expectations for the performance of its recorded music division for the financial year ending 31 March 2007. It now expects the division's revenue for the period to decline by around 15% at constant currency compared to the prior year, based on its current assumptions for the music market.

This revision to expectations is as a result of the continued and accelerating deterioration in market conditions in North America where, in the calendar year to date, the physical music market as measured by Soundscan has declined by 20%. This unprecedented level of market decline has led to an exceptionally high level of product returns. Consequently, the net sell-through on EMI Music's current releases and catalogue has been lower than anticipated and, given the level of returns, the negative impact on gross margin has been higher than normal. As a result of these factors, EMI now believes that profits for the year ending 31 March 2007 will be significantly below current market expectations.

EMI Music Publishing continues to perform in-line with expectations.

This current challenging market environment reinforces EMI's decision to re-focus and restructure the business for the future. To date, good progress is being made with the restructuring initiatives announced on 12 January 2007, and the Group is on track to deliver £110m of cost savings in full and on time.

EMI Group will provide a trading update on 18 April 2007 and will report its results for the financial year ended 31 March 2007 on 23 May 2007.
